martinluff @azzcatdesign - hi Catherine :) #DCTH -7:53 PM May 13th, 2010

rosalindwills @nicholastalks Heya! No, just on question 2. =D #DCTH -7:52 PM May 13th, 2010

blueturtlefl @azzcatdesign hello! Better late than never #dcth -7:52 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess @mikeconaty Genius! #DCTH -7:52 PM May 13th, 2010

DCTH #Q3 (via @majesticjess) What's best project management tool for designers? 37sig? action method? things? #DCTH -7:52 PM May 13th, 2010

blueturtlefl @nicholastalks nope, still on Q2 #dcth -7:52 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty @madysondesigns Gorsh Sarah. ::blush:: hee hee hee #DCTH -7:52 PM May 13th, 2010

azzcatdesign Hi Friends! Sorry so late! Yo, Nick! #dcth -7:52 PM May 13th, 2010

nicholastalks #dcth am i too late? -7:51 PM May 13th, 2010

cjgraphix Alright #dcth, speaking of deadlines... I've gotta focus on some client work now. Might poke my head back in a bit later. -7:51 PM May 13th, 2010

madysondesigns @mikeconaty Which is a genius idea. #dcth -7:51 PM May 13th, 2010

visualchemist #Q2 Schedule should be discussed ahead of time. If the project drags well past deadlines, it's time to invoice and set new benchmarks. #dcth -7:51 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty #Q2 I've included timeline updates in email footers before: <http://twitpic.com/of5tz> Showing consequences of delays. #DCTH -7:50 PM May 13th, 2010

martinluff #Q2 - always communicate with client when you think there are delays - sometimes it's a just an oversight on their part #DCTH -7:49 PM May 13th, 2010

mikebrisk RT @cjgraphix: #q1 #dcth ouch... design by committee. that rarely ends well. contract should name a single person for approvals. *a must! -7:49 PM May 13th, 2010

seebrowntweet #q2 I stick to my end of the timeline, and send reminders to the client for their stuff. :) #dcth -7:49 PM May 13th, 2010

adammccombs #Q2 Establish deadlines in writing and what happens if delays occur. Talking to the client always helps. #DCTH -7:48 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @blueturtlefl #Q2 yeah, I send a 'fair' progress invoice for % of job & tell them the ball is in their court to contact me when ready #dcth -7:48 PM May 13th, 2010

gabediaz #Q2 You need to outlines dates for content, goals, etc. from project start. If dates are not met, delay fees will incur #dcth -7:48 PM May 13th, 2010

martinluff #Q2 always have something in contract about client's responsibility to keep on time... #DCTH -7:47 PM May 13th, 2010

rosalindwills #Q2 Specificity in the contract seems to be the key, from what I hear. The more things you have to point to in writing, the easier... #DCTH -7:47 PM May 13th, 2010

seebrowntweet #Q2 I put the timeline in my contract and state that if someone misses a deadline, the timeline can be modified. #dcth -7:47 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @DCTH #Q2 tell them you don't have time to spend waiting, they go to back of the line if they take too long to approve/move forward #dcth -7:47 PM May 13th, 2010

blueturtlefl #Q2 Dealing w/this issue right now...no response after multiple emails. I plan invoice for time spent and hope that speeds them up #dcth -7:47 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess @artrox That's a good tip! Thanks! #DCTH -7:46 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess #Q2 This is a big problem for me sometimes. I sometimes try to bill for the work I've done so far, it makes them hustle a little. #DCTH -7:46 PM May 13th, 2010

blueturtlefl @martinluf LOL...just watching her makes me smile! Everyone should have one :) #dcth -7:45 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @majesticjess ohhh I hear ya! So all I do is add shadows, move elements & funk it up a bit...boring...moves them s-l-o-w-l-y to better #dcth -7:45 PM May 13th, 2010

paolosanchez #Q1 Design requirement fulfillment is the key. Once defined as fulfilled, much easier to arrive at a design agreement. #dcth -7:45 PM May 13th, 2010

DCTH #Q2 (sort of related) How do you effectively deal with slow-moving clients/projects? tactics? suggestions? #DCTH -7:45 PM May 13th, 2010

martinluff @majesticjess @rosalindwills - hi there... #DCTH -7:45 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty @artrox :-) I mean the person in charge of the committee & project. #DCTH -7:45 PM May 13th, 2010

martinluff @blueturtlefl - hi Kim, enjoyed PCTH back there (puppy community... :) #DCTH -7:44 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @mikeconaty depends if you are big enough to have one, I am project manager & designer & strategist...LOL...but I love IT! #dcth -7:44 PM May 13th, 2010

rosalindwills @martinluff Heya! #DCTH -7:44 PM May 13th, 2010

joshcarlson RT @cjgraphix: #q1 #dcth ouch... design by committee. that rarely ends well. contract should name a single person for approvals. -7:43 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess @artrox We want it to look different, but don't change what we have. #DCTH -7:43 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess @martinluff Hi there! And thank you. #DCTH -7:43 PM May 13th, 2010

blueturtlefl @martinluff Hi Martin! #dctch -7:43 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox #Q1 yeah, I love the ones who say, we want something different, then by the time it's over it looks just like everybody else's! #dctch -7:43 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess @mikeconaty Yes, that's very true. They did see that and they're "discussing." #DCTH -7:43 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty @artrox Although that's the project manager's job (client) but it has to be done sometimes. #DCTH -7:42 PM May 13th, 2010

martinluff Hi everyone, by the way... ;) #DCTH -7:42 PM May 13th, 2010

martinluff @cjgraphix #Q1 - yes, I'd agree, get one person who's empowered to approve... #DCTH -7:42 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty @majesticjess Seeing how much revisions are costing can sometimes focus them on the task at hand quickly. #DCTH -7:41 PM May 13th, 2010

gabediaz #Q1 Since it's a committee each has their own perspective but as a company they have collective goal. Define goal then meet/exceed it #dctch -7:41 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty @majesticjess O-U-C-H! Frontpage blech. I've sent billing "updates" to clients to show how far along (or away) from the estimate... #DCTH -7:41 PM May 13th, 2010

cjgraphix #q1 #dctch ouch... design by committee. that rarely ends well. contract should name a single person for approvals. -7:40 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess You guys are SO HELPFUL! Thank you so much. #DCTH -7:40 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @mikeconaty #Q1 definitely!!! Get them all together/conf call, they prob all DO have diff ideas. Let them bounce of each other & agree #dctch -7:39 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess @mikeconaty When I'm not there, they say "what's wrong with the old design?" When I'm there, nothing! (old one is in FrontPage!!) #DCTH -7:39 PM May 13th, 2010

visualchemist Q#1 That's why there's a Round 1. Ask the client whats working and what isn't and focus on those points for round 2. #dctch -7:39 PM May 13th, 2010

gabediaz #Q1 Per contract I state 3 mocks. Constructive criticism is needed to save time and money for the client #dcth -7:39 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty #Q2 Put a face to "the designer" so you're not just an abstract idea to them. #DCTH -7:38 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @artrox #Q1 sometimes i find it hard when I want them to push the envelope a bit & they won't but they pay me so.... #dcth -7:38 PM May 13th, 2010

mikeconaty #Q1 Ask for a F2F meeting w/ the committee. They may all be throwing out conflicting ideas/orders w/o knowing it. #DCTH -7:38 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @majesticjess #Q1 just get them to narrow it down. I have 5 to keep happy, I sit them in room & tell me what they do/don't like of each #dcth -7:37 PM May 13th, 2010

cjgraphix #q1 #DCTH Designers need to explain their decisions based on business factor, not 'wow' factor. Does the design do the job for the user? -7:37 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess @blueturtlefl That's very true! Hard to get constructive thoughts out of 10 people though, I find. #DCTH -7:36 PM May 13th, 2010

rosalindwills #Q1 Seems to me at a certain point you're within your rights to say, "You have to be more specific." You're not expected to mind-read. #DCTH -7:36 PM May 13th, 2010

adammccombs #Q1 Take a step back and make sure that it's not personal bias directing the design. Users matter too. #dcth -7:35 PM May 13th, 2010

majesticjess #Q1 - If it changes the answers, the "client" is actually one contact person for a committee of about 10. #DCTH -7:35 PM May 13th, 2010

artrox @DCTH #Q1 try and work out what elements of each they do and don't like & remember it's not about you, evrybdy taste is different #dcth -7:35 PM May 13th, 2010

seebrowntweet #Q1 I specify the # of mockups/revisions in my contract for freelance. For work-work, I just keep cranking them out, unfortunately. #dcth -7:35 PM May 13th, 2010

blueturtlefl #Q1 After the 1st or 2nd design I would've asked why/what don't they like. Ask for constructive criticism, not just yay or nay #dcth -7:35 PM May 13th, 2010

DCTH By the way, this is @mikeconaty since @chadengle is off playing skiball at Chuck E. Cheese's for his Bday today. #DCTH -7:34 PM May 13th, 2010

blueturtlefl @gabediaz Lady's a good name too! #dcth -7:33 PM May 13th, 2010

DCTH #Q1 (via @majesticjess) If you've done 4-5 designs & the client keeps saying "I'm still not wowed" what do you do? Throw in the towel? #DCTH -7:33 PM May 13th, 2010
